THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The Ascension stories highlight two things we disciples of Jesus still tend to do, and they outline for us our Mission today. "They worshiped, but they doubted." We worship him, but we doubt. Sure, we do. We hold something back, don't we? Even in our most devout moments, we don't always fully give ourselves to the faith that our life is in his hands and that we have nothing to fear because he is always with us.

In fact, we tend to live our day-to-day lives, not like people who fully believe in the resurrection and the hope and joy that it gives, but like people who can easily get upset by the smallest of things. We can each take a little test right now. Let's make two quick lists in our head:

- 1) List the ways I show signs of living the hope and joy of the resurrection;
- 2) Now list the ways I show I am upset, disturbed, impatient, frustrated, angry at the people, situations, and circumstances around me.

See what I mean? It takes great grace to be freed by the Good News, "I am with you always."

The second thing we tend to do is to catch ourselves "standing there looking at the sky." Jesus will return in glory, but we aren't supposed to stand flat-footed, waiting for the return. We have a mission. Too often, we get caught realising that our faith in Jesus, the gift of grace given to us, is not just about keeping us from sin. It is not only about our relationship with Jesus - saying our prayers and avoiding evil. We are called to take his place in this world and to share the Good News with others - to make a real difference in bringing others to the Lord.

Another simple, quick examination of my conscience can help. This involves a quick "self-grading."

- 1) What grade would I give my fundamental relationship with the Lord in my everyday life? A? B? C? D?
- 2) Now, grade what do I give my efforts at self-sacrificing love for the people closest to me, for those people with whom I struggle, and for the poor of the earth? A? B? C? D?

The point of these moments of self-awareness is not to make us feel guilty, ashamed, or discouraged. They help us, in the same way the disciples were helped, to head up the road back to Jerusalem and await the coming of the Holy Spirit. "You will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon you, and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, throughout Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth." The Greek word Luke uses here is dunamis, which is translated "power." We get our words "dynamic" and "dynamite" from this word. The Spirit gives us something that can give a new dynamism to our lives, a new ability to do more than we could imagine, to be Jesus' witnesses.

Sunday 17th May marks the 60th World Day of Social Communications.

This year's theme is Preserving Human Voices and Faces.

The second collection on this day supports the work of the Catholic Bishops' Conference of England and Wales, particularly its websites, publications and social media channels. The Bishops' Conference works hard to foster positive relationships with media outlets to communicate the Good News of the Gospel.
